G Soni and Mehi bring together a collaboration spanning British Asian music, soulful pop and electronic music backgrounds on "To The Moon", featuring Djinn and Marie Jo.

Released through GHRU MUSIC, the single pairs a version featuring all four artists with a second version credited to G Soni and Mehi. The release places established creative partnerships alongside a fresh combination of musical perspectives.

Four artists. A shared creative journey.

A meeting of musical worlds

Credited as the track's producer, G Soni is a British Asian music producer and audio engineer whose work connects artists from the UK and India. His catalogue includes projects released through Sony India, T-Series and Jass Records, with radio exposure including BBC Asian Network and Sunrise Radio.

London vocalist Mehi brings a background rooted in classical Indian music and shaped by Desi and Western influences. His approach embraces music's ability to cross language and cultural boundaries, while his ongoing work with G Soni provides room to explore different aspects of his voice and musical identity.

For Djinn and Mehi, "To The Moon" continues a creative connection stretching back to "Point of Xstaci". A producer, singer, songwriter and composer, Djinn has built a career across original releases, collaborations and artist development, drawing on a musical background that encompasses hip-hop, R&B and electronica.

Marie Jo adds another established connection to the collaboration. Born in the Philippines and raised in Britain from the age of 12, the singer-songwriter developed her voice through a musical family and choir singing. Her influences include Beyoncé, Celine Dion, Whitney Houston, the Carpenters and ABBA. Her work with Djinn includes her 2021 debut single, "What Lovers Do".

Together, the four artists bring distinct histories to a shared release: G Soni and Mehi's ongoing partnership, Djinn's longstanding collaboration with Mehi, and Marie Jo's recording relationship with Djinn. "To The Moon" marks a meeting point for those connections.

"To The Moon" is available on streaming platforms via GHRU MUSIC.
